ART HOUSE CONVERGENCE ANNOUNCES SUNDANCE INSTITUTE ART HOUSE PROJECT PROGRAM

IndieWire

The Sundance Institute Art House Project is the perfect collaboration for these two organizations working to enrich cinema culture in North America.

The Art House Convergence announces its first class of Sundance Institute Art House Project theaters, designed to recognize theaters in North America that embody a benchmark of excellence in programming, community involvement and operations.

The 23 theaters selected for the Sundance Institute Art House Project applied for this recognition and were found to meet high standards including: quality programming, deep involvement with their local communities, strong financial standing, and recognition from their peers and their communities. The program is a unique opportunity for theaters interested in further engaging with the Art House Convergence and Sundance Institute.

The Sundance Institute Art House Project is the perfect collaboration for these two organizations working to enrich cinema culture in North America. In creating this benchmark of excellence, the Art House Convergence and Sundance Institute can continue to build the foundation of a rapidly growing movement of local, community-based independent theaters.
